ONPA presents awards to Associate member publications

WELCHES, Ore. – During its annual convention July 19-21 at The Resort at The Mountain, the Oregon Newspaper Publishers Association presented its Associate Member Publications Contest awards. The five-category editorial contest is open to all of ONPA's Associate member publications.

Six out of ONPA's 22 Associate member publications took part in the contest, which was judged by the West Virginia Press Association. The publications submitted 32 entries.

The Wilsonville Spokesman was honored with ONPA's Sweepstakes Award for receiving the greatest recognition in the contest.

ONPA, founded in 1887, is a professional association of the state's 89 daily and nondaily paid circulation newspapers.
